The most common flat button is in solid color, with double-sides flat surface. It can be made into imitation shell button with decorated beads, or imitation wooden grain button. The button is usually used to fasten the hat, collar, and clothes.

Bread-Shape Resin Button

Plan

Section

Bread-shape resin button is named after its shape, which looks like bread. The bread-shape resin buttons had single side bread-shape or double sides bread-shape. The raised surface in the middle makes the button look fuller, and it's smoother to fasten. Solid color buttons usually have back holes, can be dyed the same color as fabric, and processed by various techniques for decorating clothes.
